TRI-CITY HEALTH CENTER NOTICE OF PRIVACY PRACTICES

THIS NOTICE DESCRIBES HOW MEDICAL INFORMATION ABOUT YOU MAY BE USED AND DISCLOSED, AND HOW YOU CAN GET ACCESS TO THIS INFORMATION. PLEASE REVIEW IT CAREFULLY.

This notice contains a summary of our health information privacy practices and of your rights relating to your health information. In the absence of an express statement to the contrary, this notice is not intended to preclude or restrict uses or disclosures of health information that are otherwise permitted by law, or to give you rights that we are not required by law to give.

If you have any questions about this notice, please contact the privacy officer at 510.770.8133 ext. 290.

Who Will Follow This Notice:

This notice describes our health center's practices and that of:

- All employees, staff, and other health center personnel.
- All departments and units of the health center.
- Any Independent health care professional who provides services to you within our facilities
- Any member of a volunteer group we allow to help you while you are in the health center.

All these individuals, sites and locations follow the terms of this notice. In addition, these individuals, sites and locations may share medical information with each other for treatment, payment, or health center operations purposes described in this notice.

Our Pledge Regarding Medical Information:

We understand that medical information about you and your health is personal. We are committed to protecting medical information about you. We create a record of the care and services you receive at the health center. We need this record to provide you with quality care and to comply with legal requirements. This notice applies to all records of your care maintained by the health center; whether made by the health center personnel or your personal doctor.

This notice will tell you about the ways in which we may use and disclose medical information about you. We also describe your rights and certain obligations we have regarding the use and disclosure of medical information.

We are required by law to:

- Make sure that medical information that identifies you is kept private;
- Give you this notice of our legal duties and privacy practices with respect to medical information about you; and
- Follow the terms of this notice, as currently in effect.

How we May Use and Disclose Medical Information about You:

The following categories describe different ways that we use and disclose medical information. For each category of uses or disclosures, we will explain what we mean and try to give examples. Not every use or disclosure in a category will be listed.

For Treatment: We may use medical information about you to provide you with medical treatment or services. We may disclose medical information about you to doctors, nurses, technicians, medical students, or other health center personnel who are involved in taking care of you at the health center. For example, a doctor treating you for a broken leg may need to know if you have diabetes because diabetes may slow the healing process. Different departments of the health center also may share medical information about you in order to coordinate the different services you need, such as prescriptions, lab work and x-rays. We also may disclose medical information about you to people outside the health center who may be involved in your medical care after you leave the health center, such as family members, social service agencies, health care facilities, and providers that we use to provide services for part of your care.

For Payment: We may use and disclose medical information about you to bill and collect payment from you or another source, such as an insurance company or a relative who has financial responsibility for you. For example, we may need to give your health plan information about medical care you received at the health center so your health plan will pay us or reimburse you for the medical care. We may also tell your health plan about a treatment you are going to receive to obtain prior approval or to determine whether your plan will cover the treatment.

For Health Care Operations: We may use and disclose medical information about you for health center operations, and in limited circumstances, to enable the recipient of the information to carry out these operations. These uses and disclosures are necessary to run the health center and make sure that all of our patients receive quality care. For example, we may use medical information to review our treatment and services and to evaluate the performance of our staff in caring for you. We may also combine medical information about many health center patients to decide what additional services the health center should offer, what services are not needed, and whether certain new treatments are effective. We may also disclose information to doctors, nurses, technicians, medical students, and other health center personnel for review and learning purposes.

Quality of Care Improvement Activities We may use and disclose medical information about your for reviews of the quality of care we are providing. For example, our health center works with the Community Health Center Network, a local group who has reviewed the quality of diabetes care being provided to patients in our area.

Appointment Reminders: We may use and disclose medical information to contact you as a reminder that you have an appointment for treatment or medical care at the health center.

Treatment Alternatives: We may use and disclose medical information to tell you about our recommend possible treatment options or alternatives that may be of interest to you.

Health-Related Benefits and Services: We may use and disclose medical information to tell you about health-related benefits of services that we provide and may be of interest to you.

Fundraising Activities: We may use medical information about you to contact you in an effort to raise money for the health center and its operation. We may disclose medical information to a foundation related to the health center so that the foundation may contact you in raising money for the health center. We would only release contact information, such as name, address and phone number. If you do not want the health center to contact you for fundraising efforts, you must notify the privacy officer in writing.

Payment for Your Care: We may also give information to someone who helps pay for your care.

Contractors: We may disclose your health information to our contractors who assist us with our operations. Our contractors agree in writing to keep the health information provided to them confidential and secure, and not to use it except to assist us.

Research: Under certain circumstances, we may use and disclose medical information about you for research purposes. For example, a research project may involve comparing the health and recovery of all patients who received one medication to those who received another, for the same condition. Where feasible, research information will not include information that could identify you as an individual. If research project can identify you, those projects are subject to a special approval process. This process evaluates a proposed research project and its use of medical information, trying to balance the research needs with patients' need for privacy of their medical information. Before we disclose medical information for research, the project will have been approved through this research approval process.

As Requested by Law: We will disclose medical information about you when required to do so by federal, state, or local law.

For Public Health Activities: We may disclose health information about you for public health purposes, if we are required or permitted to do so by law. The following are examples of circumstances in which we may be mandated or permitted by law to make a report:

- To prevent or control disease, injury or disability;
- To report births and deaths;

- To report the abuse or neglect of children, elders, and dependent adults;
- To report reactions to medications or problems with products;
- To notify people of recalls of products they may be using;
- To public health registries such as breast cancer registry;
- To notify a person who may have been exposed to a disease or may be at risk for contracting or spreading a disease or condition, and;
- To notify the appropriate authority if we believe a patient has been the victim of abuse, neglect or domestic violence.

To Avert a Serious Threat to Health or Safety: We may use you and disclose medical information about you when necessary to prevent a serious threat to your health and safety or the health and safety of the public or another person. Any disclosure, however, would only be to someone able to help prevent the threat.

Special Situations

In addition to the practices described above, there are other situations in which we may be required or permitted to disclose our patients' health information. These include the following:

We may also release medical information about foreign military personnel to the appropriate foreign military authority.

Workers' Compensation: We may release medical information about you for workers' compensation or similar programs. These programs provide benefits for work-related injuries or illness.

investigations of Medicare claims, inspections, and licensure. We may disclose to these government programs, with compliance to civil rights laws.

Lawsuits and Disputes: If you are involved in a lawsuit or a dispute, we may disclose medical information about you in response to a court or administrative order. We may also disclose medical information about you in response to a subpoena, discovery request, or other lawful process by someone else involved in the dispute, but only if efforts have been made to tell you about the request (which may include written notice to you).

Coroners, Medical Examiners and Funeral Directors: We may release medical information to a coroner or medical examiner. This may be necessary, for example, to identify a deceased person or determine the cause of death. We may also release medical information about patients of the health center to funeral directors as necessary to carry out their duties.

We may also disclose medical information about you to authorized federal officials so they may provide protection to the President, other authorized persons, or foreign heads of state or conduct special investigations.

Inmates: If you are an inmate of a correctional institution or under the custody of a law enforcement official, we may release medical information about you to the correctional institution or law enforcement official. This release would be necessary; (1) for the institution to provide you with health care; (2) to protect your health and safety or the health and safety of others; or (3) for the safety and security of the correctional institution.

De-Identified Information: We may remove information that identifies you from your health information, so others may use it without learning who you are. Once your health information has been de-identified, we may use or disclose it.

Limitations: In some circumstances, your health information may be subject to restrictions that may limit or preclude some uses or disclosures described above. For example, government health benefit programs may limit the disclosure of members' health information for purposes unrelated to the program. In addition there are special restrictions on the disclosure of health information relating to HIV/AIDS status, mental health treatment, developmental disabilities, and drug and alcohol abuse treatment. We comply with these restrictions in our use of your health information.
